BACKGROUND

4. On the 18th day of July, 2007, the Debtors commenced a proceeding under Chapter 7 in this Court. (Docket No. 1).

5. The Debtors received their discharge on November 15, 2007. (Docket No. 23).

FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

6. Bank Of America, hereinafter "BOA", had numerous business accounts with the Qualico, Inc., a Debtor in a separate Chapter 7 proceeding, all of which were personally guaranteed by one or both of the Debtors and all of which were listed in the Debtors' and in Qualico's Chapter 7 schedules, including Account #68711010882099. (See Exhibit "1-A" and "1-B").

7. On November 30, 2007, “Craig”¹, an employee of Creditors’s Financial Group, LLC (hereinafter CFG), a collection agency apparently hired to collect the debt to BOA, called and left a message on Mr. McClure’s phone at approximately 8:05 o’clock a.m., which advised Mr. McClure that he (McClure) was to stop ignoring his obligations and that he needed to phone CFG the same day or face legal consequences for his inaction.

8. Mr. McClure called “Craig” back at approximately 8:32 o’clock a.m. on November 30, 2007 and left a message that he (McClure) had no idea what the call concerned and that he needed some detailed information to satisfy “Craig”’s request. Mr. McClure specifically asked what account or company “Craig” was representing so that he could provide the necessary information when “Craig” called back.

9. “Craig” called back and left a message that said he had seen Mr. McClure’s number on his caller ID and was merely trying to reach him.

10. “Craig” became hostile and, again, left a message stating that Mr. McClure needed to meet his obligations and stop trying to beat CFG out of money that was loaned to Mr. McClure. “Craig” went on to tell Mr. McClure to “be a man and talk to me on the phone” or “we are going to show up on your doorstep and demand payment, along with seeing you in court very soon – call me back”.

11. Mr. McClure called “Craig” back at approximately 9:03 o’clock a.m. and had to leave a message again. This time, Mr. McClure advised that he would call again but would appreciate knowing the best time of day to reach “Craig” so that they did not continue to miss each other’s calls.

12. “Craig” phoned again at approximately 9:08 o’clock a.m. and left another message that said he had received another message from Mr. McClure but not to expect “Craig” to sit around and wait for Mr. McClure’s calls and that Mr. McClure was to keep calling until “Craig” was off of his other line and could answer the phone.

13. “Craig” also said, “I am very busy here, so let’s not keep playing games of phone tag, and you keep phoning me until I answer the phone where we can talk.” “Craig” also said that, perhaps Mr. McClure didn’t understand the seriousness of the situation which would “rain a lot of grief down” on Mr. McClure if he didn’t call “Craig” and get the matter resolved.

14. Mr. McClure was finally able to get through to “Craig” at approximately 1:11 o’clock p.m. on November 30th. “Craig” began by saying “It’s about time”, and proceeded to tell Mr. McClure that they needed to get down to business to discuss his “walking away” from his obligations and that he had a huge loan with Bank of America and that they were coming after Mr. McClure to collect.

15. He also said that they might already have dispatched someone to Mr. McClure’s residence to confront him with having ignored his earlier calls or leaving messages to further delay the inevitable. Mr. McClure stopped “Craig” at this point and advised that he had filed a personal and corporate bankruptcy. “Craig” simply replied “damn it” and hung up.

16. On Thursday, December 6, 2007, six (6) days after “Craig” had been advised of the bankruptcy filings, Mr. McClure received a letter (written on December 3, 2007) and a call from Mr. Peter Rebelo at 12:55 o’clock p.m., who left a message saying that it was “likely too late now” as someone was coming to Mr. McClure’s house that day to talk to him about a debt he had been ignoring and that Mr. Rebelo was also having papers filed in Court by the end of the day (December 6, 2007) to get the legal process started to sue Mr. McClure.

17. Mr. Rebelo also advised Mr. McClure that he needed to understand the importance of returning his phone call immediately at 303-369-2345, extension 2254. Mr. McClure called back and left a message that gave Mr. Rebelo the bankruptcy filing information and the case numbers for both the personal and the corporate bankruptcies.

18. Notwithstanding the collective Defendants' actual knowledge of the pendency of the Debtor's Chapter 7 case, including the December 6, 2007 phone call to Mr. Rebelo, CFG, on behalf of Bank of America, has continued to attempt collection of the claim as evidenced by the CFG telephone number appearing on the Debtor's caller ID almost every day, and for a couple of times each day.

19. CFG has left no more messages since the December 6, 2007 call to Mr. Rebelo but, CFG continues to call, nonetheless. Since December 6, 2007, the following calls have been made by CFG to Debtors, with no message left: December 7, 2007, 9:05 o'clock a.m., December 7, 2007, 12:34 o'clock p.m., December 10, 2007, 8:34 o'clock a.m., December 10, 2007, 10:17 o'clock a.m., December 11, 2007, 9:11 o'clock a.m.

20. Respondent's techniques and patterns of conduct are not unique. Similar actions are reported at www.whocalled.us/lookup/8772982251. Excerpts from which are attached hereto as Exhibit "2".

RELIEF REQUESTED

21. The actions of CFG, Peter Rebelo and BOA were knowingly, willfully and intentionally done and in direct violation of the provisions of 11 U.S.C. §524 and §362 (h) resulting in actual damages to the Debtors, including emotional distress, embarrassment, attorney's fees and costs.

22. The egregious nature and conscious indifference of the actions of CFG, Peter Rebelo and BOA demonstrate a calculated and conscious disregard of the bankruptcy laws, and an intent to cause distress and fear to the Plaintiffs which entitle the Debtor to recover punitive damages for the emotional and other damage intentionally inflicted on the Debtors.

23. A threatening phone call from an aggressive and abusive bill collector with knowledge, actual or imputed, of the bankruptcy case and discharge, is cause to award the Plaintiffs both actual and exemplary damages. The repeated contacts and threats of sending someone to the Plaintiffs' home warrant an award of actual and significant exemplary and punitive damages.

WHEREFORE, PREMISES CONSIDERED, pursuant to the provisions of 11 U.S.C. §105, §362 and §524 , Debtors/Plaintiffs pray that the Court hold Creditors Financial Group, LLC, Peter Rebelo and Bank of America jointly and severally in contempt of this Court and award Debtors their actual damages including, but not limited to, reasonable attorney's fees for the filing of this Motion, and to punitive/exemplary damages which Movant alleges should be awarded in an amount of not less than $100,000.00, jointly and severally.

Debtors pray for general relief.

Respectfully submitted:
